Day 7 January 21, 2025

First author Elizabeth Gilbert found love and inspiration in Bali when writing her book Eat, Pray, Love. Then, actress Julia Roberts followed in her footsteps in the book's big screen adaptation. We head out with our private guide to see some of the filming locations from the beloved film and heartwarming memoir.

The first stop is the Elephant Cave, Goa Gajah. It's name is slightly misleading, lending the impression that it's a gigantic dwelling full of elephants. Rather, it's an archaeological site of significant historical value, with a stunning relic-filled courtyard, rock-wall carvings, a central meditational cave, bathing pools and fountains.

Next we tour the Ubud Sacred Monkey Forest. The village's residents view the Monkey Forest as an important spiritual, economic, educational, and conservation center for the village. In addition to around 700 long-tailed monkeys, you also can see 186 species of trees in 12.5 hectares of forest.

The next stop is at Cafe Wayan, a breezy outdoor eatery where we can snag a seat at the table where Julia Roberts dined. Enjoy a delicious rijsttafel, a Dutch word that literally translates to "rice table", an elaborate meal of signature dishes adapted by the Dutch. You'll have a chance to indulge in an impressive assortment of traditional Balinese specialties.

After lunch we'll have a chance to view the elaborate 16th-century Ubud Royal Palace from the outside.

Our final stop of the day is at the Ubud Arts and Crafts Market. In this shoppers' paradise, you'll find hundreds of stalls bursting with wood carvings, batik shirts, sarongs, jewelry, trinkets, and all manners of souvenirs aimed specifically at visitors to the area. Evening is at leisure.
